The topic of conversation during the week has centered around the disappearance of Skeegie Child from his Princeton home. Parents and neighbors have just about given up hope of seeing the child alive.

I've asked an even dozen men during the past 24 hours what they would do if they were in the crowd that finds the kidnap. I won't print their answers. What would you do?

A kidnapper is the lowest type criminal. I can think of no words to describe a man who will snatch a child from its home and hold it for ransom.

I know you've seen pictures of Skeegie. He is an intelligent looking chap. Handsome, too. What suffering that mother and father must be going through.

I hope that the youngster is found alive—but my better judgment tells me that a man who will kidnap a child will also destroy that same child in an effort to cover up his crime.

Some one asked me the other day how many fishing contests are being held this summer. I figured that there are about five. Competition is keen. The Everglades Lure's, and the one announced the other day by Lutz Pharmacy in Belle Glade.

Out of first contests I can see no good reason why I can't win some sort of a prize this summer. I've caught a few black bass so far but none was of the proper size to enter in a contest. I'm waiting for a big one.

Lutz Pharmacy in Belle Glade—guided by fire a few days ago—is open for business in temporary quarters in the same block. The building was damaged by the fire. It is being repaired. Within a few weeks Mr. Lutz hopes to ready to open a new store in the same old location.

Albert's drug store moved the other day from the main street to the building formerly occupied by the Grand Department store. Jim Darden is opening a new drug store in the building vacated by Albert's. There's another drug store doing a good business in Rader building just across the street from the Rader camp. Looks to me like it won't be any trouble to buy drugs in Belle Glade from now on.

Jones Spooner and Olin Cowart brought in a fine string of black bass Monday. Six of them weighed over 36 pounds. When asked where they caught them the answer was "Pahokee Creek." When the fellows have some excellent luck fishing and want to keep their fishing grounds secret they always tell that the catch was made in "Pahokee Creek."

Lee Rawis and Gene Butter also brought in a fine string of bass the first of the week. They had more luck than I did. They got some dandies in their catch and it memory serves me right the catch weighed something over 100 pounds.

Reward For Island

Offering a substantial sum for the return of an island is something unique in the annals of advertising, but operators of Bird Island cried out "Admiral" in an Ocalas paper this week offering a reward for the return to the vicinity of their docks of the much publicized Floating Island, featuring recently the Riptide's "Believe It or Not" cartoon. The island disappeared three weeks ago and no trace of it can be found.

The Association of County Commissioners of Florida will hold their annual convention at Pensacola June 15-18, it has been announced by W. C. King, president of the organization.

Endeavoring to place 150 orphan children in suitable homes this summer, Marcus C. ("Duke") Fagg of the Children's Home Society of Florida, at Jacksonville, is appealing to Floridians to cooperate by taking a child for the sum-

South Bay Enjoys Lively Season Of Produce Shipping

Four Packing Houses Handle Record Amount of Vegetables

The South Bay Florida East Coast station was closed Tuesday, May 24, to remain closed until October according to C. M. Stever, manager. The shipments of produce from the station were in regular shape with over 400 solid cars of snap beans, English peas, cabbage and tomatoes having been closed out on Tuesday of this week with the shut-down of the packing houses.

It is estimated that at least 300 cars of produce also left the farm area by truck for various shipping points. In addition to this is a considerable volume of produce that was handled by truck to the Belle Glade-Cheape terminal and put through packing houses there due to arrangements with the various commission houses.

Packing houses were in operation at the South Bay term. The Milton, Crough and Gandy packing houses were open throughout the harvesting season for snap beans and English peas. These two plants were practically all available labor employing 100 men and 28 women each. The J. S. Ayl and W. R. Hooker packing plants opened in time for the tomato season. This work requiring highly specific knowledge and exacting standards of quality and quantity required a great deal of labor coming in for the season. Many of them from the lower east coast. A skilled to market packer will make from $6 to $8 per hour.

The tomato season opened April 8 and closed May 24 with a total of 212 cars of tomatoes rolled during that period, others going out in trucks. The peak of the season according to shipping reports was May 5 when 18 cars of tomatoes were 400 cars, or nearly 1,600 boxes of fruit, mostly new crop oranges.

He estimates the loss to Florida in general for the week alone was 400 cars, or nearly 1,600 boxes of fruit, mostly new crop oranges.

Local News Reel Is Instant Hit

The local news reel being shown each Tuesday and Saturday night at the Prince Theatre in Pahokee is going over big with the crowds in attendance. Several interest schedule and among them was the burning of the Arthur Well Lumber company. Other interesting local stories may be the reel.

Management of the Prince Theatre is interested in getting a camera to be used immediately to film it. Many interesting shots have been made during the past week and will be shown along with the school graduating class Saturday night at the midnight show and again next Tuesday night at 9 p. m.

DROUGHT DAMAGE SAID $10,000,000

TAMPA, June 2 (FNS)—In an unusual report to the state board of agriculture, E. S. Ellison, director of the federal-state fruit frost warning service, estimated citrus losses in the state due to the drought at approximately $10,000,000.

No rains of any consequence have occurred over the greater portion of the state's citrus area for over three months and weather officials state no relief is yet in sight.

In estimating the loss, Ellison figured that about half represented damage to the new fruit crop growing, the remainder to young trees. The old crop was believed to be lost to some extent but such damage in no way compares with the new crop damage, he reported.

He said that the damage to the new crop was estimated at $10,000,000.

Ellison said yesterday that he was more pleased with the response from the public.

He said also that additional items will be added to the stock as demands arise.

DID IT EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

On the shores of Lake Okeechobee things are always happening. Unusual things. Very weird in fact. In this column today we are recording just a few of the unusual things that have happened during the past week. Maybe they'll prove interesting to you. At least we hope so.

The shoe shine industry in America runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars per year. But, there's one who has been doing something to add to his industry. In fact, it's kind of unusual. On May 8, he hadn't spent a dime for a shoe shine. He always shined his own shoes and saved those extra dimes. Cary Tabb told us Monday morning that he spent his first dime Sunday for a shoe shine and Cary is pushing 57 in years. We've no reason to doubt what he told us and wonder if there is another man in the country who lived for 57 years without purchasing a shoe shine.

A check protector is all right. That is when the owner uses it. But, when a sneak thief appropriates one for his use things don't turn out so good. A couple of weeks ago such a thief broke into the packing house of Knight and Company in Belle Glade and carried away the check protector. Along with it he carried away a few dozen of the printed checks belonging to the firm. Thomas Knight, the owner, had a check protector but didn't mind losing it since the thief took the back of the check book. The story doesn't end there. Monday morning several merchants in Pahokee had reason to complain about the usual signature of Mr. Knight at the bottom of the check there was another signature placed there with a rubber stamp. A negro had several of the checks cashed in Pahokee Saturday afternoon and tried to cash up in Belle Glade. He got away with quite a sum of cash in Pahokee but his racket didn't go so good in Belle Glade. Anyway, he hasn't been apprehended yet and the boys who cashed the checks say that in the future they will scrutinize all checks a little more closely for signatures.

Yesterday we noted an unusual advertisement telling of the Black & Q. Club at Camp Auto in Okeechobee. It told of the many benefits of this "motor city" emanating from the cuisine effect the olfactory sense with a pleasurable sense of anticipation, causing a liquifying sensation of the palate. Porcine-Bovine-Canine." Which all goes to prove that unique advertising will at least attract a fellow's attention for a moment or two.

Comptroller Lee To Continue Drive For Collection of Gross Receipts Tax

TALLAHASSEE, June 2.—Comptroller J. M. Lee said Monday that the state will continue its vigorous campaign to collect gross receipts taxes for paying school teachers' salaries.

He said he opposed "any form of state or gross receipts tax as a means of raising revenue for the state when he was a member of the legislature and his competitor,"

He said he opposed "any form of state or gross receipts tax as a means of raising revenue for the state when he was a member of the legislature and his competitor." However, the legislature in 1935, in its deliberations and to the opinion of those who opposed him, voted a tax.

Repeated efforts were made to repeal the tax by the legislature and to the opinion of those who opposed him, voted a tax. It was not to help to any tax dodger but that it is a mistake to pay any honest merchant out of his pocket or modify this act."

If merchants pay the taxes before June 30, the comptroller said, "It will prove sufficient to pay a tax. If we fail to let up at this crucial moment in time, meet the obligations of our schools, the cry at the next session of the legislature will be to raise the tax on those who have paid in order to make way for the escape of those who have not been paying."

He said no merchant is obliged to pay the gross receipts tax unless he has sold something.

Most merchants, he said, have paid and are continuing to do so.

The merchant, large or small, who consistently pays to the state the money due under this act, can't long keep his doors open.

In competition with the merchant who is not paying, yet is keeping his stock, cut prices and undercut his taxation competitor."

Judge George C. Gibbs, a member of the state committee for the reform of criminal procedure, which Attorney General Landis was the chairman, and in order to develop greatest assistance possible to the state in this reform movement, he made a specific study of the systems of criminal procedure used in European countries, particularly those which have practiced in the courts over which Judge Gibbs presided. The characteristics of these systems are his acknowledged legal ability, honesty, fearlessness and his unquestioned integrity.

As attorney general, he retained the eight assistants appointed by former Attorney General Landis, and his first official act was to announce that no new assistant would be added to the office personnel at the present time.

He also announced that he would be a candidate for the democratic nomination for the office of attorney general in the special primary election which will be called by the State Democratic committee at its meeting June 2.

His past record shows a lot of regard for civic obligations. He served in the First Florida Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish-American War. For ten years he was a member of the Boy Scouts of the Greater Jacksonville Council and at the present time is a member of the National
